Documentary: "For the Next 7 Generations"

Followed by a Shamanic Journeying Experience

Saturday, February 18, 2012

10:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. in Niwot

RSVP 303.665.0175

Suggested donation $10 which includes snacks and beverages.

Join us for an intimate gathering to explore the world of Shamanic Journeying with seasoned Shamanic practitioner and teacher, Karen Rice King.

First, we will view the documentary "For the Next 7 Generations," in which 13 indigenous Grandmothers from around the world were brought together by one woman's vision, the International Council of Thirteen Indigenous Grandmothers. Filmed on location in the Amazon, Mexico, and North America, the film ends in India with a private meeting with the Dalai Lama. For more information and to see the trailer, please see the official website: ForTheNext7Generations.com.

After viewing the film, Karen will guide us on a "journey" to our healing and sacred space in another dimension called the Middle World. Then, in a longer guided journey, you will have a chance to ask your Teacher or Helping Spirit to show you how the gathering of the 13 Grandmothers is significant for your personal life.
