Well, Hello again!

August 1, 2005

Mention has been made with the 2nd hottest July in Colorado's history just passing. As I pick up Medicine for the Earth: How to Transform Personal and Environmental Toxins by Sandra Ingerman, I realize how strategic it is that I completed her teacher training for this over two years ago. This body of work and the processes we will engage in will enable all of us to be more involved in the changes life is shooting our way. And the involvement will have a quality that will raise your Spirits!

This September I return to Sante Fe for instruction on how to lead others into the area of performing Soul Retrievals on their friends, family or clients. Going now to Sante Fe for this work has become a pilgrimage. And this September I will make one of my most favorite drives from Sante Fe to Pagosa Springs. Enclosed is the description of a wonderful workshop I am offering with Sally Yates. Her earthaven retreat center is wonderfully placed against national forest, 6 or so miles up Wolf Creek Pass east of Pagosa Springs. Please consider joining us as she has home-spun quarters for a few. The Journeying and Mesa Work we will be doing will present memorable times out doors as fall begins to grace the forests behind earthaven. The wonderful hot springs resort downtown has over 20 pools now and is a must while there.

Then, mid-September in a great house in Lafayette (in Boulder County) we will embark on another Dowsing, Earth Acupuncture workshop. Remember, you will save yourself hundreds of dollars by being able to cure your own home and office. We've had so much fun adding the exposure of journeying as another tool for your tool kit. It also allows me to qualify those of you who want to take Medicine For the Earth later on.

Another thing to consider is that the latest developments from the Geobiology Research Association will be shared. There is much to know to help protect your clients and/or those you love from the energies that are negatively impacting our health.

Please check on other offerings at my website www.KarenRiceKing.com.

Fondly,
